Black Sash Award - An award to recognize adults and youth for outstanding work in lodge ceremonies. The recipient would receive an award in the form of a black sash with either a white line or white arrow (have not decided with one). The black sash with the white line is the original sash of the order. The recipient will be chosen from nominations for their fellow peers of the lodge. Recipient will be chosen with advice from the ceremonies chairman and will be chosen at the lodge awards meeting. The award can be given up to 3 people per year, adults and youth can be chosen but there are not more adults than youth chosen per year. The award does not have to be given out if people picking the award see fit. Things to consider when picking the recipients memorization of parts, learning multiple parts, attending most if not all service weekend ceremonies, help with ceremonial grounds, helping with drumming singing, and AIA activities as well. Award will be given out at the annual lodge dinner.
