Roses

- The biggest thing that went right was advertisement and attendance. With 101 ordeals that is amazing. The incentives were really good (Colin
- The food and reunion were good (Aidan
- Bhood ran well (Matt)
- Ceremonialist were really good at adapting (Brayden)
- Production of the new properties (Z)
- Shoutout to ordeal and BHood. Thanks to everyone who got EMATs .Bhood only heard good things. (Will)
- Program standpoint. Lots of options. People were enthusiastic about doing the options that were had. (Mara)
- Registration was flawless. Was really well done. (Todge)
- Trading post did really well this weekend. Made over 5,000 in profit. The properties were the main thing that came out. To the people that made the Camp staff reunion had a big impact on our profits. (Paul Siminuk)
- DInner was very good. The cheese sandwich was ok. (Rob Raggi)
- The meet w lodge chief was a good idea and should be continued
- Service went really well (Heather Filer)
- Energy throughout the weekend was terrific. From the time they got there till the time they left. (John Bickel)
- We annoyed the hell outta candidates so a lot more people showed up. (Matt Gutterman)

Thorns

- Time organization was cluttered. Everything was overlapping with each other. 2 hours of activities made you feel like you couldn't control it. A lot of people didn't go fishing because they couldn't find it. (Colin Darcas)
- Better communication between ordeals and membership. Had to go all over camp to find people. (Paul Siminuk)
- AIA was trying to get more presence with the POW-WOW. Hopefully at SS2 we will get more advertisement and foot traffic. THat way people get interested in the lanapay (Scott Mann)
- If you didn't want to spend money on Saturday night there wasn't much to do. There was the tp and patch auction. NEED more fellowship that doesn't require money. Just have a party. (Steve Mach)
- Program at night: inducted in people but that's all they see. Perception and connection to a new member is something that we need to work on. (Todge Sutkowski)
- Service project sign up. Instead of going to a specific project. It was just different camps rather than a project signup. Going back to assign different groups different projects will make life easier. (Colin Darcas)
- How we talk in front of candidates. Language should've been changed bc if you are going to talk, we have to walk the walk. (Todge Sutkowski)
- Dining hall was poorly set up because there were a lot of people moving around. Making sure that the dining hall is set up in time. (Mara Strauss)

- Female retention because most of them were candidates. Making sure we have a female presence at weekends rather than just the candidates.
    - How to fix:
        - While at the weekend, make an effort to get people to come back. Has to come from everyone (Mara Strauss)
        - Talk to people, invite them back. Don't treat us like we are different or fragile. If you are going to invite the youth boy, talk to the youth females as well. Female LEC members, you are the example, show up to the weekends. Candidates won't want to come back if they just see adult females. (Heather Filer)
        - Girls are building up their weekends. So we aren't going to magically have people show up on weekends. It is going to take time. We have to invite people out and see them at the weekend doing stuff. We are getting there. We have a lot of female cubs, but we lack the female troops. Get females out to section events, to see other females within the order, but there aren't as many female troops compared to male troops. (Rhys Wallace)
        - A female leader addressed this that for the ordeals, we should try to encourage them. We don't want to disencourage them, but make sure they are doing ok rather than hazing them. As an LEC, when we see/hear it happening, we need to shut it down. (Heather Filer)
        - A conversation that needs to happen with the Emats and Ordeals committee. (Liam Lynch)
- People weren't brought up the next weekend. Working w candidates/bhood members. Start promoting weekends early and often. Here's when the events are. Getting people there to show up. (Will Beardsley)
- Emat training was not held before the weekend. At dinner, ordeals weren't able to talk, however this should've been lifted. Cleanup after the event was not good. (Matt Gutterman)
- If you see something, empty the trash can, rather than let the advisors know. Help out. (Fred Lynch)
- The emat meeting, it was made clear that they shouldn't be allowed to talk. If it wasn't direction then you shouldn't be able to talk. (Rob Raggi)
- LEC members should come out and EMAT. (Will Beardsley)
